I'm looking at a "classic" process maturity assessment done by a consulting firm for a client, and what a useless document it is. I'm not saying who sent it to me or why or where from. That isn't important here because so many assessments are similar. Compare yours. The report analyses 8 practices. It doesn't say why those eight.

Dust Bunny July 14, 2017 at 2:27 pm. We don't know that it was a bad business model; we only know that the LW didn't like it. That a set of procedures works for one situation doesn't mean it will necessarily work for another, and the LW, as a new employee, might not have as much information as she really needs about why that other account was suffering, to know that what worked for her ...

This approach is approximate. There are false positives (ie, an article mentioning the USS Arizona that has nothing to do with the southwestern state) and false negatives (ie, the paper misspelling a state). New York and Washington were particularly tricky. From "New York" I backed out all returns for "New York Times" and "New Yorker" strings.
