The answer is simple: they're the pharmacy's to lose. There is no financial incentive for a provider to file a PA. Instead, they do so out of moral obligation to their patients (and because that's the way it's always been done, since providers are the only ones with access to the patient information needed to complete the PA).

The answer to your prior authorization problem is simpler ...

You can just do: select distinct col1, col2 from your_table; That's exactly what the distinct operator is for: removing duplicate result rows.. Keep in mind that distinct is usually a pretty expensive operation, since, after processing the query, the DB server might perform a sort operation in order to remove the duplicates.
