Until the 19th century, linear algebra was introduced through systems of linear equations and matrices. In modern mathematics, the presentation through vector spaces is generally preferred, since it is more synthetic, more general (not limited to the finite-dimensional case), and conceptually simpler, although more abstract. A vector space over a field F (often the field of the real numbers ...

In mathematics, and more specifically in linear algebra and functional analysis, the kernel (also known as null space or nullspace) of a linear map $L : V \rightarrow W$ between two vector spaces V and W , is the set of all elements v of V for which $L(v) = 0$, where 0 denotes the zero vector in W . That is, in set-builder notation, $\text{ker } L = \{v \in V \mid L(v) = 0\}$.

But not knowing is not always obvious or clearly understood. That's because learning is not fully understood. The more you learn the more you should realize what you didn't know.
