The answer, I think, is the one I put forward in my talk when I anticipated it would get me into trouble. Proposing that some gender imbalances in fields like physics might not be due to discrimination is like being a social scientist in the Soviet Union and proposing that some class differences aren't due to discrimination.

The other guys did a fairly decent job of describing what half-open and half-closed connections actually are, but the idea of half-open connections is also often searched for in the context of a them being a PROBLEM.. There are arguments on the internet as to what the terminology "half-open" or "half-closed" should represent, but as far as I'm concerned, terminology is just semantic.
